POLICE ORGANISATIONS AND OTHER CENTRAL ARMED POLICE FORCES

ENTRY INTO POLICE SERVICES AS AN OFFICER

A career in Police or Law Enforcement Service holds huge prospects for courageous and dedicated candidates. The constant increase in crime rates, and the resulting security conscious society, has increased the demand for police jobs in India and across the world. Indian Police Services (IPS) is the premier and apex police service of the country. The Indian Police Service (IPS) was formed in the year of 1948 under the cadre Ministry of Home Affairs.

There are two ways of getting into Indian Police Services:

- (a) Passing All India Civil Services Examination conducted by All India UPSC Civil Services Examinations.
- (b) Promotions from State Cadre Police Services.

A candidate recruited in the IPS has to undergo a tough schedule of training at the police Academy, and within 4 to 5 years one can expect to be a Superintendent of police or Deputy Commissioner of Police. An IPS officer in due course of time may expect to rise to the levels of Director General of Police in a State or Directorate General of any Central Para Military Forces or Other investigating / law enforcement agencies.

NCC

UNITY AND DISCIPLINE

After IPS, comes the State Police Service (SPS), The Policing is a State subject and all States and Union territories have its own police forces headed by a Directorate General of Police. The recruitment to SPS is also on the same pattern as that of IPS. The only difference is that the recruitment of SPS is made by the state public service commission concerned, through usually a combined competitive examination for state civil services. However in case of union territories, recruitment of SPS is also made by Union Public Service Commission through the civil services examinations as one of the Group 'B' services.

The candidates selected for State Police Services are usually posted as Deputy Superintendent of Police (Deputy SP) or Assistant Commissioner of Police. On prescribed satisfactory service in the SPS, the officers are nominated for the IPS.

CENTRAL ARMED POLICE FORCES CADRE AND PERSONNEL

The Central Armed Police Forces have their own officers and personnel to these forces are recruited directly as well as obtained from respective departments. Recruitment is conducted mainly in three modes.

GAZETTED OFFICERS

Officers in CAPFs are recruited through Central Armed Police Forces (Assistant Commandants) Examination conducted by UPSC. They are appointed as Assistant Commandants and are Gazetted Officers generally referred as DAGOs (Directly Appointed Gazetted Officers). DEGOs (Departmental Entry Gazetted Officers) are those who have been promoted through departmental exams conducted internally for Subordinate Officers.

SUBORDINATE OFFICERS

Sub Inspectors are recruited through competitive examination conducted by Staff Selection Commission and they are referred as DASOs (Directly Appointed Subordinate Officers). DESOs (Departmental Entry Subordinate Officers) are those who have been promoted through departmental exams conducted internally for Constables, Head Constables and Assistant Sub Inspectors.

CONSTABLES

Constables are recruited through competitive examination conducted by Staff Selection Commission. Apart from above modes, CAPFs conduct recruitment for specialized posts such as Engineers, Doctors etc. among DAGOs and Wireless operators, Technicians, Nursing Staff etc amongst subordinate officers and constables directly under their own authority.

ASSISTANT COMMANDANT

Out of total vacancies of Assistant Commandants in CAPF, 50% are filled by Direct Recruitment (including 10% from SSCO), 33% by promotion from Inspector to AC & 17% by limited Departmental Competitive examination conducted by CAPFs.
